This Russian ironclad Wladimir Monomach was expected to arrive in Singapore from Europe on the 13th.

The 'Mutual' Company's steamer Ching Wo arrived in Singapore from Liverpool on the 19th instant, and after discharging and loading cargo she was ready for sea on the same evening. The steamer Ching Wo, belonging to the same Company, was signalled just before the Ching Wo's departure, and as the Ching Wo was heaving the anchor it was seen that she was coming in much too fast, and that a collision with the Ching Wo was inevitable. The port anchor of the Ching Wo was let go, but failed to bring her up, and she swept along the whole length of the pier, carrying away awnings, railings, and staving in a lifeboat as she did so. Although the two steamers were not a hand's breadth of each other when the Ching Wo was brought up at last, the hulls of the ships were in actual contact, the damage inflicted being done by the stern anchor of the Ching Wo, which projected slightly over the steamer's bow. The scope of the Ching Wo was a very narrow one, it seemed up to the last moment as if a disastrous collision was about to take place. The cargo boats were all empty, and the ship's side for a minute before, or else they would have been badly up, and the cargo boats alongside the Northern got off with remarkably little pain to spare between themselves and the bows of the Ching Wo.—Strait Times.

SUPREME COURT.

IN CRIMINAL SESSIONS.
(Before His Honour Mr. Fiddling Clarke, Aiding Chief Justice.)
Tuesday, April 22.

THE TWO EXTREME ABOUT CASE.

Further evidence was heard in the case of J. S. Lucas, who was charged with setting fire to the premises of the defendant, with intent to defraud the Transatlantic Insurance Co. of Hamburg (Messrs. Siemens & Co., agents). Mr. Francis, instructed by Mr. Wilkinson, appeared for the defendant. The following gentlemen were the jury:—Messrs. R. P. Dipple, F. Meyer, A. G. St. John, J. Kennedy, W. Gardner, L. M. Baptista, and W. Boyce.

R. P. Dipple, auctioneer and appraiser, adduced a valuation of the stock in the premises on behalf of Messrs. Siemens & Co., the agents for the Transatlantic Insurance Co. of Hamburg. He estimated the value of the whole stock, furniture and clothing at $720, taking into consideration that they would be of more value to the owner than anybody else. That was the estimate from the owner's point of view. He did not make any estimate from the warehouseman's point of view, but almost invariably owing to the condition they were in. He had mentioned to the magistrate that he thought they might realize about $500. He had since sold the goods by auction and the sum realized was $236. There was some bric-a-brac which sold at a low price. The defendant's estimate of $22 a case was excessive. It was the kind of brandy that was sent to Japan, and the wholesale price if the stuff was in good condition would be $120 to $130.

In regard to Mr. Francis, witness said he did not know the retail price of this kind of brandy.

This liquor was described by Inspector Swanton as a 'kill-at-800-yards brandy.'

Job Wicheil, Police Sergeant, who went to the scene of the fire with the steam fire engine, said his attention was attracted on arriving there by a heap of smouldering clothes on the shop floor which appeared to be saturated with kerosene oil.

Thomas Campbell, of the Fire Brigade, said he noticed the fire on the day after the fire. On going upstairs he noticed a heap of clothing and a piece of oilcloth saturated with kerosene. He also noticed that the floor was wet and smelt strongly of kerosene. Some boards, which were placed against the wall appeared to be wet with kerosene.

Mr. Francis, before calling any evidence, asked his Lordship to direct the jury to give a verdict of 'not guilty' on the ground that there was no case to go before the jury.

His Lordship said he would allow the case to proceed.

W. R. Neachan, accountant in the New Oriental Bank, said a paying in book handed to him showed $425 for 3rd March last; $70, 4th March; $35, 4th April; $55, 5th April; $30, 6th April; $320, 21st April. These sums were paid in cash by J. S. Lucas, who was still had an account at the bank.

By the Attorney General—I don't know what the man's balance at the bank is now. I think it is about $500. It was since the fire (2nd March) that the account was opened. He had no account before that time.

James Edwards, proprietor of the Marino Hotel, said—I have known the prisoner for a number of years. He keeps a general store and deals in wine. He deals in all sorts of general goods, most of which he purchases at auction. I understand he was living alone at 33 Esplanade Street. He had a booth at the Races. I bought some $120 worth of crockery from him about a week before the fire. I wanted the things for my new house. I bought them at his store. He proposed to let me have liquor and provisions to the extent of between $700 and $1,000 to sell on commission for him, if my own stores did not arrive in time. He pointed to cases in the godown and said: 'I have plenty of stores here.' The cases appeared to be in good condition. I did not open any of them. There seemed to be a great quantity of stuff in the place, both sides being pretty well filled up. Generally speaking, the prisoner is not well liked, as he is constantly bringing people into the place.

By the Attorney General—I don't know whether any of the goods were moved before the fire. I made no agreement to take stores from him. The impression I had was that part of the stores he referred to were in the godown. The prisoner issued tickets inviting the public to Hongkong to visit his booth at the Races. I don't know if he is a betting man, but I know he has got up 'sweeps' at the races for the last few years. I have never gone to his booth.

C. D. Wilkinson said—I am acting for the prisoner in this case, and have been acting for him in civil cases for the last few months. I have promissory notes of the value of $2,221 belonging to him.

Inspector Swanton, recalled, said the booth kept by the prisoner at the Races was used for getting up sweepstakes on the races. Gambling was also carried on, and people who took sweepstake tickets were supplied with liquor.

Mr. Francis, addressing the jury, said the prisoner was charged with a very serious offence, and it was for you to decide whether or not he was guilty. He was charged with setting fire to the premises of the defendant, with intent to defraud the Transatlantic Insurance Co. of Hamburg. constantly using Chinese and Indians in the Summary Court for the recovery of money advanced. He was a man who had not many friends, and he was living alone in this house. Under these circumstances it was impossible for him to prove a negative.

He was not in point of law expected to do so, but it was hardly possible that any witnesses could be called for the defence. The jury must not let anything they had heard as to the character of the accused affect their minds in any degree. A man might in many respects be not of the highest character, but there was a very wide distinction between that and a man who would deliberately set fire to his house for a feigned purpose. He submitted in the first instance that there was an entire absence of motive as regards the prisoner. It had been shown not only that he was not in financial difficulties, but that he was actually in possession of funds and promissory notes to a considerable amount. In these circumstances it is likely that he would not set fire to his premises containing goods which were valued by Mr. Kapp who saw them after the fire at $720, and that he would run all the risk attendant on this act for the purpose of recovering at the outside a sum of $1,500. The prosecution had proved that the place had been on fire, and they had attempted to prove that it had been set on fire, not accidentally but deliberately and with design, and furthermore they had endeavoured to show that it was set on fire by somebody standing in the place. But they had to go further than that if they asked the jury to convict the prisoner, they must prove that the place had actually been set on fire by the direct act of the prisoner. Referring to the proceedings of the police after the fire, the learned counsel said that there was a certain amount of danger to a man in the prisoner's position in the magisterial inquiry. Besides the professional anxiety of the police to establish a case there was a double danger if the proceedings as in this case were prolonged over a long time, and the case was carefully conducted, serious injustice might be done by them, and when they were so badly conducted as this one was—

His Lordship—There is no evidence of that.

Mr. Francis said he was just going to point out. One portion of these proceedings was taking charge of the premises and making an examination immediately. That was not done in this case, and no attempt was made to protect the goods from the weather or from thieves, except putting a Chinese watch, and no authorized person took an inventory of the contents for more than a month afterwards, while amateurs like Mr. Campbell of the Fire Brigade, who popped into the place from curiosity, were called to give evidence. That was not the way an enquiry should be conducted. It was the way the place should be guarded. The prisoner himself was unable to explain how the fire occurred and could only suggest that it had been done by some one who had a grudge against him. It was certainly a very suspicious circumstance that some person had set fire to the godown by pushing some lighted material through one of the holes in the door; and it was quite possible that after the fire was extinguished the same hand might have placed the kerosene-soaked materials in the back room of the upper floor.

The Attorney General said his only desire in this case was to place all the facts as fully as possible before the jury in order that they might come to a right conclusion on it, as he thought it was a very important case.

consideration and deliberation of a jury. It was not to be expected that there would be direct evidence against the prisoner; that was not to be looked for in the ordinary run of cases. He learned that the prisoner was a very ingenious man, and he was not to be taken in by his cleverness. He had failed to grapple with the difficulty which was presented by the presence of the kerosene-soaked materials in the back room upstairs. Human nature might be deceived, but he did not think it was only after the fire was extinguished that the materials were placed in the back room upstairs. Human nature might be deceived, but he did not think it was only after the fire was extinguished that the materials were placed in the back room upstairs.

It appeared that the prisoner was a man of somewhat shady character, and that he had made it all the more likely that he might commit such an offence as this. As to the motive, the jury would remember the 'copy-book maxim' 'the love of money is the root of all evil,' and that would be quite a sufficient inducement to a man of the prisoner's character to do such a thing.

His Lordship, in addressing the jury, cautioned them that mere suspicion, as distinct from a reasonable conclusion, would not justify them in deciding that the prisoner was guilty. Another caution was that they must not allow themselves to be influenced by anything they might have heard outside the court. His Lordship reviewed the evidence at great length. He said observations had been made with regard to the proceedings taken by the Police after the fire, and although he did not wish to say anything on this point he thought it right to notice it. Of course allowances had to be made on account of the smallness of the staff and other things, but he must say that in this case he did not think the provisions of the ordinance had been fully adhered to. The ordinance, with the object no doubt of assisting in the detection and punishment of arson, indicated that the Captain Superintendent of Police should as soon as possible after a fire take possession of the premises and that a minute inspection of the premises should be made at once by an officer of not lower rank than an Inspector. In this case that was not done, and no inventory was made till the 21st March, and even then not by an officer of the rank indicated. His Lordship dwelt at considerable length on the fact of kerosene having been used, which he said was one of the crucial points of the case.

The jury, after a retirement of three quarters of an hour, returned a verdict of 'not guilty,' by a majority of four to three. The prisoner was therefore discharged.

PEAK HOTEL AND TRADING COMPANY, LIMITED.

The following is the report for presentation to the shareholders at the first extraordinary meeting to be held at the City Hall, at half-past twelve o'clock, on Saturday, the 26th April, 1890.

In accordance with Paragraph 2 of Clause XX of the Articles of Association the Directors have the honor to submit to the Shareholders their Report and Statement of Accounts for the Year 1889.

Property.—The cost of the Contract for building the Hotel is larger than was originally anticipated, the reason being that the building was found to be of a more substantial character than was anticipated for the purpose of the Hotel were adopted. The old building known as the Peak Hotel has already been removed, and it was found necessary to do this at once because the Government required that all buildings to be erected should be completed before the rainy season and in order that the Contractor for the new building should have full scope to make all the progress he could during the winter months. The Directors are glad to say that the work has progressed favorably, and it is hoped that a portion of the Hotel will be ready for occupation by June next.

Working account.—It was considered desirable that the Company should have temporary premises suitable for visitors, during the building of the Hotel, and consequently Mr. Thomas Jones of Grange Road was taken over by the Company. It was for a term of three years by which time it was estimated the Company's Hotel would be completed and be in thorough working order; the progress that has been made however with the new buildings will probably permit of occupation at an earlier date.

The first year's working shows a loss of $8,584.34, which however includes the Preliminary Expenses, amounting to $2,114.22. Owing to the damage caused by heavy rain during the month of February the running for two months during the last season of the year and the Hotel receipts suffered in consequence.

The board anticipates that the expenses of carrying on the business during the present year will be considerably reduced and it is of opinion that the prospects of the Company are favorable.

Directors.—Mr. Alexander Findlay Smith having retired from the Board on his departure from the Colony, Mr. Jas. Anderson was invited to take his place. In accordance with Paragraph V of Clause XV of the Articles of Association Messrs. P. Lyric and J. D. Oughtie retired, but being eligible offered themselves for re-election.

Auditor.—The accounts have been audited by Mr. Arthur G. Jones, whose appointment requires confirmation.

JELEBU MINING CO. DIRECTORS' REPORT.
Singapore, 10th April 1890.

To the Shareholders of the 'Jelebu Mining and Trading Co., Ltd., General Managers.—Your Directors submit a statement of the Company's accounts from 1st April, 1889, to 31st January, 1890.

The time covered by these accounts is ten months only, because it was held to be prudent to close the books at a period which coincides with that cessation of labour and general settlement of miners' accounts which takes place at the Chinese New Year.

When the books were closed the Company had 27 mines in full work, with a labour force of 634 coolies. The Company does not import or employ any labour as is often the case with other companies.

The amount of tin ore produced and delivered during the ten months was 2,715 piculs, all of which, except a small trial-shipment to London, was at 31st January in the Company's godowns at Jelebu. At that time your Directors had not decided as to the use of the tin ore, but satisfactory arrangements have since been made with the Pulu Brani Smelting Works in Singapore, and the greater part of the ore has since been smelted and the tin sold at a good profit.

The amount of outstanding advances to miners on 31st January was $12,456, exclusive of the sum of $3,424 written off as bad debts.

After paying all floating and general charges, wages, Directors' fees, and Agents' Commission, and a full cost of the prospecting and reporting carried out by Mr. A. H. Allingham, and after making full provision for bad debts and for depreciation of furniture and plant, there remains a net profit of $7,841. Out of that sum your Directors recommend the payment of a dividend of three per cent, which will absorb $3,750, and they recommend the carrying forward of the balance of $4,091 to the account of the current year.

Your Directors invite you to note that nearly the whole sum proposed to be paid in dividend has been earned by your own working capital while lying in the Company's banks, and they think that in view of the sound position and good prospects of the Company, profits so earned ought to be paid back to you.

Since the issue of last report (12th Sept. 89) Mr. T. Schultze retired from the board, and Mr. J. P. Jacquelin joined it, and was elected Chairman in Mr. Schultze's place. Mr. Arnold Reid and Mr. Charles F. McKie were elected Directors in place of Mr. Lee Keng Keat and Mr. S. B. Carr, who retired.

The Directors to retire by rotation are Mr. W. E. Hooper and Mr. A. Reid, who offer themselves for re-election.

Mr. A. J. Quinn, the Auditor of the Company, retires from office, but offers himself for re-election.

J. P. JACQUELIN, Chairman.
W. E. HOOPER, Director.

NEWS BY THE AUSTRALIAN MAIL.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL REFUSES TO RESIGN.
London, March 19.—Lord Randolph Churchill has refused to resign his seat in the House of Commons owing to the limited character of the measure that has been passed upon him.

THE TITERS QUESTION.
London, March 19.—The Marquis of Salisbury intends to consult the Conservative members of Parliament with a view to opposing the passage of the Bill.

THE ANGLICAN QUESTION.
London, March 19.—The Liberal press express a desire that Portugal should cease diplomatic relations with England. In their comments the press make an attack upon the 'Princes of Wales.'

It has been discovered that the British flag was hoisted outside British territory in Africa, and on land which England admits belongs to Portugal.

London, March 21.—The Portuguese merchants of Mozambique, acting under orders from the Governor of the place, have refused to supply a British man-of-war stationed there. They have also insulted the officers of the vessel.

THE GOLD COINAGE.
London, March 21.—When the pre-Victorian coinage, acting under the standard which are all dealt with, it is intended by Mr. Goschen to proceed to the rehabilitation of defective coinage of the reign of her Majesty.

COLONIAL COURTS OF ADMIRALTY.
London, March 21.—The bill granting to colonial Courts of Admiralty analogous powers to those possessed by the English Courts has passed the House of Lords.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERIES.
London, March 21.—Sir James Ferguson, Bart., C.B., Political Secretary to the Foreign Office, stated in answer to a question in the House of Commons, that the modus vivendi arrived at in the matter of the Newfoundland fisheries is only intended for the present season, and not permanent.

London, March 22.—A meeting of the inhabitants of Newfoundland interested in the fisheries question has been held to consider the terms of the arrangement made by the British Foreign Office with regard to French trespasses upon the Newfoundland fisheries. The meeting was of a resolute character, and it was threatened by speakers that if Britain would not protect the grounds in dispute the Newfoundland people should appeal to America for aid.

THE BERLIN LABOUR CONFERENCE.
London, March 22.—The decisions of the Labour Conference in Berlin, in which the Emperor William has taken an active personal interest, have been to a large extent influenced by the system of labour and the scale of wages in English factories.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.
London, March 20.—The annual boat race between the Oxford and Cambridge Universities was rowed this afternoon, and resulted in a win for Oxford by one length only. Time, 22 minutes 3 seconds.

The betting at the commencement of the race was 9 to 1 on Cambridge.

The Cambridge men got the water first, and at Hammersmith Bridge had established a lead of half a length over the dark blues. At this stage the Oxford men made their race and came with a desperate rush. The result was soon to reverse the position of the boats, for at Barnes Bridge the Oxford crew were leading by half a length. From this point the race was a severe struggle, and resulted in a win for Oxford by a length.

The state of the river was unfavourable, the weather being windy, and the water in consequence was choppy.

paid by the landlords. The total advances will amount to 33 millions sterling, representing the capitalised value of numerous Imperial annual grants to Ireland, thus forming a guarantee of 33 millions plus the 12 millions advanced under the Amalgamation Act, which, being re-let, will be regarded as paid off.

Mr. Gladstone admitted that the bill was evidence of a courageous policy on the land question in Ireland, and Mr. Balfour promised that the Government would not be deterred from the course which should be followed on the merits of the measure.

It was read the first time, and will be read the second time, on April 16.

March 26.—Mr. Balfour announced that the collateral securities provided rendered it impossible for the Treasury to suffer a loss of six pence. The suggested distress in Ireland would receive a special contribution of £1,000,000 from the Church surplus, which the landlords would receive £2,750,000 in stock or cash.

The bill has secured a favourable impression in the House of Commons, except upon the Pall Mall party.

Mr. Gladstone, speaking at the National Liberal Club, said that Mr. Balfour's bill would involve a large pecuniary liability to the British taxpayer.

THE BEST SUIT PRODUCTION.
London, March 24.—Mr. F. O. Light estimates that the six months' production of best suiting will show an increase of 10 per cent. He considers that the total surplus for the campaign will be $14,000 tons.

THE CHICAGO EXHIBITION.
London, March 26.—The Universal Exhibition, which was to have been held in Chicago in 1893, in commemoration of the fourth centenary of the discovery of America by Columbus, has been postponed till the year 1893.

THE PEACE OF EUROPE.
London, March 26.—The Emperor William of Germany has assured the Foreign Secretary, Lord Salisbury, that he would at all times use his utmost endeavours to promote the peace of Europe.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.
London, March 20.—The annual boat race between the Oxford and Cambridge Universities was rowed this afternoon, and resulted in a win for Oxford by one length only. Time, 22 minutes 3 seconds.

The betting at the commencement of the race was 9 to 1 on Cambridge.

The Cambridge men got the water first, and at Hammersmith Bridge had established a lead of half a length over the dark blues. At this stage the Oxford men made their race and came with a desperate rush. The result was soon to reverse the position of the boats, for at Barnes Bridge the Oxford crew were leading by half a length. From this point the race was a severe struggle, and resulted in a win for Oxford by a length.

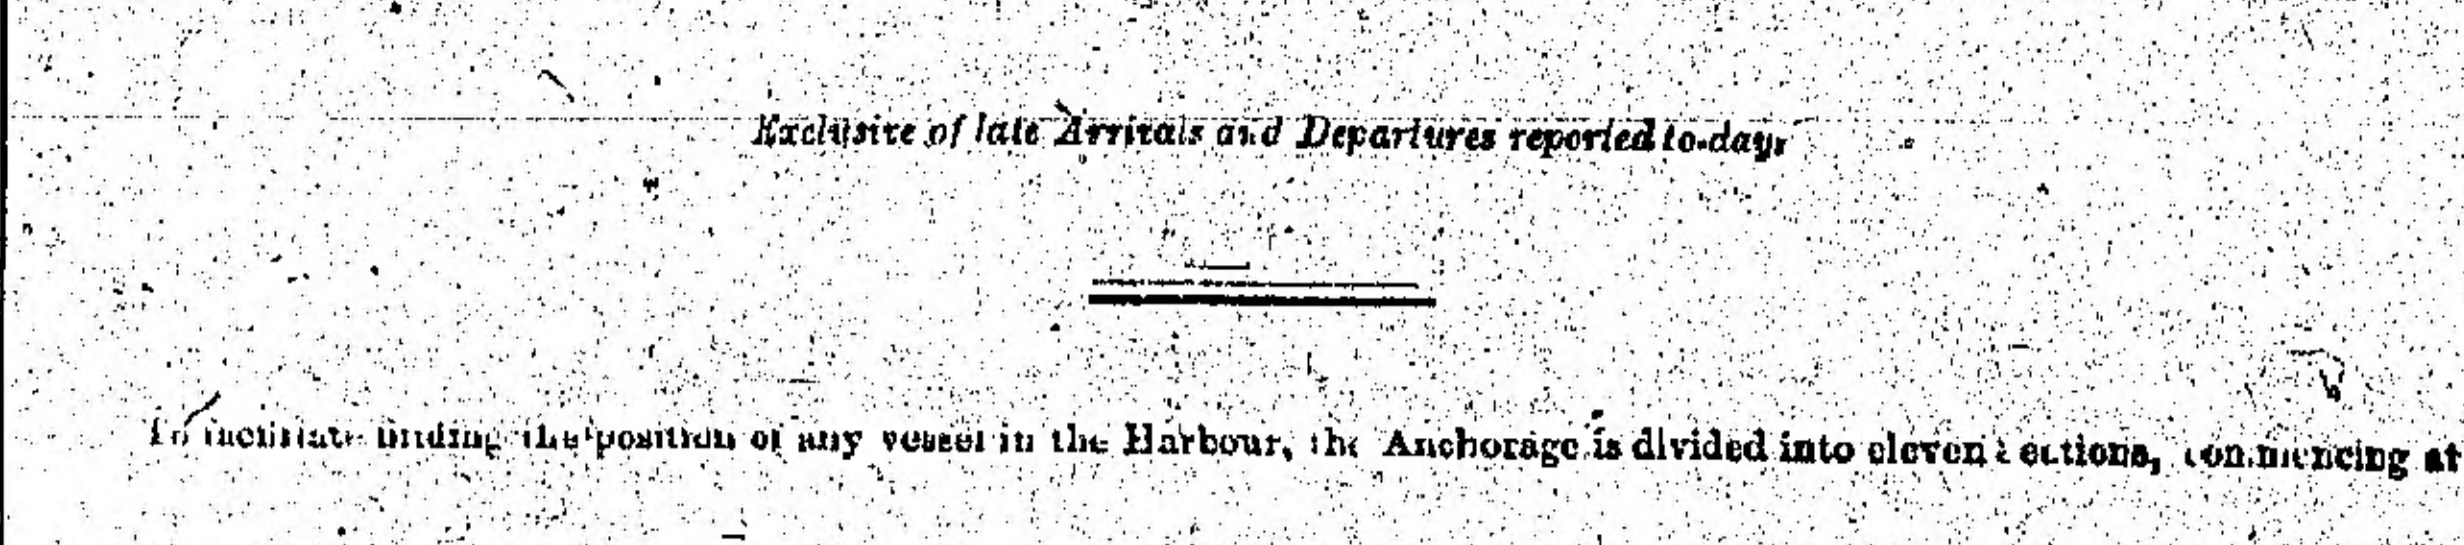

The state of the river was unfavourable, the weather being windy, and the water in consequence was choppy.

THE BERLIN LABOUR CONFERENCE.
London, March 22.—The decisions of the Labour Conference in Berlin, in which the Emperor William has taken an active personal interest, have been to a large extent influenced by the system of labour and the scale of wages in English factories.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.
London, March 20.—The annual boat race between the Oxford and Cambridge Universities was rowed this afternoon, and resulted in a win for Oxford by one length only. Time, 22 minutes 3 seconds.

The betting at the commencement of the race was 9 to 1 on Cambridge.

Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses was significantly higher for the 10-trial condition than for the 5-trial condition. Error bars represent the standard error of the mean.
